

Contents

1. Towards a Science of Consciousness	5
1.1. Introduction	5
1.2. What transpersonal psychology is	6
1.3. Psychology and spirituality	7
1.4. The History	9
2. The Transpersonal Approach	14
2.1. Assumptions of transpersonal psychology	14
2.2. The new holistic paradigm	22
2.3. Towards a new comprehension	35
3. The Identity of Transpersonal	44
3.1. Who am I?	44
3.2. What transpersonal psychology is not	45
3.3. The boundaries of the transpersonal psychology	49
4. The Consciousness States	62
4.1. What is consciousness?	62
4.2. Il modo ulteriore (The further mode)	67
5. The Subject of Experience	76
5.1. The psychoanalytic Self	76
5.2. The Self in the humanistic psychology	79
5.3. The Self in the transpersonal perspective	79
6. The Self in biotransenergetics	83
6.1. The quantum sphere	84
6.2. The elementary trance	85
6.3. The model	90

7. Personality: A Multidimensional Vision	96
7.1. Transpersonal models	96
7.2. Assagioli's model	96
7.3. Ken Wilber's model	98
7.4. Biotransenergetics model	99
7.5. Stan Grof's model	101
8. The Transpersonal Evolution	106
8.1. Ken Wilber's evolutionary map	106
8.2. Biotransenergetics evolutionary map	117
8.3. The spectrum of transpersonal development	141
9. Spiritual Emergency	145
9.1. Evolutionary crisis	145
9.2. The categories	154
10. The Transpersonal Level: Implications	181
10.1 Transpersonal and normality	181
10.2. Transformations in the world visions, following the overcoming of spiritual emergencies	181
10.3. Jonas's complex: the repression of the sublime	182
11. Transpersonal Psychology and Health	185
11.1. A turning point	185
11.2. Transpersonal psychology and holistic medicine	186
11.3. Holistic medicine, that is... hippocratic	188
11.4. Transpersonal psychology, that is... shamanic	189
11.5. Awareness: beyond medicine, beyond psychology	189
12. Transpersonal Psychology and Sexuality	191
12.1. Repressing or transcending?	191
12.2. The ostrich technique	192
12.3. What sexuality is	193
12.4. Freud: the father of Eros	196

12.5. Reich: sexual revolution	197
12.6. Osho: the master of ecstasy	198
12.7. The stream of life	200
13. Dreams in Transpersonal Psychology	212
13.1. History	212
13.2. An example	215
13.3. Travelling towards awakening	216
14. Fundamentals of Transpersonal Psychology	219
14.1. Towards the new technologies of the sacred	219
14.2. The common basis	221
14.3. Methods in transpersonal psychology	224
15. Meditation: The Highway to the Transpersonal	229
15.1. What mediation is	229
15.2. The seven factors of enlightenment	232
15.3. Levels towards enlightenment	232
15.4. The core of the art of transcendence	233
15. 5. Research in meditation	234
16. Biotransenergetics	239
16.1. Procedure	239
16.2. The methodology	245
17. Transpersonal Psychology and the Scientific Community	270
17.1. Reasons for ostracism	270
17.2. The science of the consciousness states	273
17.3. Towards an epistemology of the sacred	274
18. My contribution to Transpersonal Psychology by Stanislav Grof	278
18.1. Innovations	278
18.2. Holotropic breathwork	279

18.3. The transpersonal model and the scientific Environment	284
18.4. An expanded cartography of the psyche	287
18.5. Holotropic states	289

19. The Vedanta Meditation Practice of Self-Observation in Transpersonal Psychology: An Integrated Approach

by Laura Boggio Gilot	292
19.1. Self observation and de-identification	293
19.2. The observing consciousness	295
19.3. Some transpersonal experiences	298
19.4. Meditative self-observation and psychotherapeutic introspection	300
19.5. The value of the ethical thought	303

20. Psychosynthesis and Psychotherapy

by Massimo Rosselli	305
20.1. Outlines of meta-psychology	305
20.2. The psychosynthetic process in psychotherapy	310
20.3. Transpersonal psychotherapy and the self-actualisation process	318
20.4. The therapeutic relationship	320
20.5. The setting and the technique	321

21. Psychotransetherapy

by Eliezer Cerqueira Mendes	324
21.1. The beginning	324
21.2. The psychotranse	325
21.3. An experience	328

About the Author 331

List of references at the end of each chapter